PRIZE-FIGHTING - SEVERE WESTERN WEATHER-THEATRICAL AND PERSONAL.

[BT TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.] San Francisco, Dec. 5 .- One good result of the bitter legal contest that has followed the decision of the referee in the Fitzsimmons-Sharkey fight will be the practical death of prize-fighting in San Francisco. Boxers of prominence will not come here and risk the chance of a corrupt or incompetent referee, and Police Commissioner who used to be a patron of the sport, declares he will never agree to issue another for a fight. While the great majority of San Francisco people believe that there is less real brutality in a scientific glove fight under Queensberry rules than there is in the present game of football, nearly all admit that great moralization among young men is caused by the excitement and the gambling on the contest. In this city even schoolboys feel the effects. Fully half the crowd that filled the streets about the scene of the fight on Wednesday night were boys under sixteen years of age. In any other city in this country the police would have arrested them, but here there is no strict enforcement of any ordinance, and boys of tender years may be seen in the worst quarters at all hours. The irony of this proposed abolition of professional pugilism lies in the fact that the man who will carry it out is the one who was bitterly opposed by all religious and

When Charles Main, the capitalist, was very ill just before his death his oldest friends were amazed to find that he had no legal right to the name which he borne for nearly fifty years in California. He had changed his real name when he first came here because of a fancied prejudice against Hebrews. This week a contest over the will of Jacob Z. Davis, who accumfortune of $2,500,000 in this city, reveals that his real name was Dediker, and that he dropped it when he left Philadelphia in 1849, because he had been bound as apprentice to a tradesman and he feared the consequences of his violation of the contract. His sister's children contest the will, which left all this property to the two nieces of his deceased wife, whom he had practically adopted as his children.

Henry Butters, who represents a South African syndicate, this week decided not to accept the offer of the Los Angeles streetcar line for $3,750,000. The property was found to be good, but the rapid growth of Los Angeles will compel much new track-laying during the next two years which, it is estimated, would require $750,000 expenditure before dividends could be expected. Hence the syndicate declined to perfect the deal with the bondholders of the car lines, who are San Francisco savings bank directors.

who are San Francisco savings bank directors.

The extreme cold weather which prevailed in California for a week up to last Tuesday did little damage. It was felt more severely in Oreson and Washington. At Portland the Columbia River was frozen over directly opposite the mouth of the Willamette for the first time so early in the season in the memory of white settlers. The great river was also choked with ice from the Willamette to the Dalles, and the new Government locks were rendered useless for the time by frost. The Great Northern Railroad and the Oregon Short Line suffered so severely from heavy snows that not even the rotary ploughs could clear the track for several flays.

WHAT THE POLYCLINIC DOES.

ET HAS A DEST TO MEET AND NEEDS A NEW

With the intention of broadening its sphere of usefulness, the New-York Polyclinic Medical School and Hospital purposes to put up a new building, and a fund for the purpose has been started. A good idea of the work which this institution carries on is given by the last report of the secretary, Dr. John A. Wyeth. For the year ended October 1 last, in the hospital there were treated 667 patients of which 402 were charity cases and 265 paid in part or wholly for board and treatment. In the dispensary 51,689 cases were treated, and all tree excepting a charge of 10 cents for each prescription to such patients as were able to pay for medicines. The expenses for treating these patients amounted to $30,287 80, and the receipts from the pay of patients, from private subscriptions and the pay of patients, from private subscriptions and the share of the city fund awarded by the Charity Board, amounted to $15,041 75, leaving a deficit of

In the medical school department there were in attendance 440 physicians, nearly every State in the Union being represented.

These practising physicians paid, for the privilege of studying at the various clinics in the school and hospital, $25,745.56. The expenses of the in-lege of studying at the various clinics in the school and hospital, $28,745.85. The expenses of the instruction department for the year amounted to $20,158.53, leaving a suplus of $8,587.28, all of which was applied to the support of charity patients in the hospital, reducing the deficit in the hospital department to $6,658.77.

This deficit the trustees hope to wipe out in the current year by private contributions from patrons of the institution and the public, and by economical management which will not diminish the excellence of the service.

The trustees and faculty have approved the suggestion of the ex-president, William T. Wardwell, who recommended a movement for the purpose of securing a new building suitable to the work which for fourteen years the Polyclinic has been doing. This suggestion was that a building fund he established, and that every dollar collected be placed in the hands of the treasurer, J. Henry Harper, of Harper & Bros., Franklin Square, New-Moriz City, and of the Finance Committee, consisting in addition to the treasurer, of William P. Circle, Charles Edward Gresory, Dr. Andrew R.

For the fourteen years in which the institution has existed, not $1 has been received by any member of the faculty or medical staff for professional work done in the institution. Dr. Wyeth's report condone in the institution. Dr. Wyeth's report continues:

Medical education has up to this date received very little assistance from the laity in the United States, while in other countries, as in Prussia, for example, where, "exclusive of salaries of the professors in charge of the institutes," as shown by Professors Welch, of Baltimore, "the Prussian Government gives a little over $50,000 annually to the medical department of the University of Berlin," In 1890-21 there were only five endowed chairs in medical colleges in the United States. At the same time there were 171 endowed chairs of theology, According to the report of the Commissioner of Education, the funds productive of income in the hands of medical schools, both those connected with and those independent of universities, in the United States in 1890 amounted to only $249,200; while at the same time there were in the hands of theological schools productive funds amounting to $11,335,831. In 1892 these figures were, for medical schools, $811,214; for theological schools, $17,599,973. In 1890 and 1891, out of a total of $1,466,339 given to professional instruction, 63 per cent was given to theological schools and 17 per cent to medical schools. When, as stated by Professor Welch, one considers that there are more than twice as many students of medicine as of theology, and that medical education is much more expensive than that of theology, and requires costly laboratories, the contrasts afforded by these figures are startling.

The officers and members of the Board are as follows: President, Charles Francis Roc; vice-president, Hermann Oelrichs; treasurer, J. Henry Harper; secretary (and president of the medical faculty), Dr. John A. Wyeth; William T. Wardwell, Dr. W. Gill Wylle, Charles Edward Gregory, Dr. Landon Carter Gray, ex-Secretary Benjamin F. Tracy, Dr. David Webster, Dr. J. Riddle Goffe, William P. Clyde, Dr. Andrew R. Robinson, ex-Judge Horace Russell, Dr. Paul F. Munde, John Armstrong Chanler, Dr. Edward B. Bronson and Dr. R. C. M. THE WEEK AT LAKEWOOD.

SNOW ON THE LAWNS AND THE BOUGHS OF THE PINES.

ENTERTAINMENTS FOR CHARITY'S SAKE-OUT-

Lakewood, N. J., Dec. 5 (Special).-Lakewood is included in the sweep of the cold wave, and the temperature of the last few days has been low enough to suggest skating. The light snow that fell on Sunday night is gone from the highways and drives, but it still remains on the lawns and fields and on the boughs of the pines, giving a deat the Country Club last Saturday night was an entirely successful affair. The dinner was served at small tables for the different parties, and the menu was excellent; there was music during the dinner as well as for the dancing. Among the cottagers and their friends who drove over were Mr. and Mrs. Dwight M. Harris, with Mr. and Mrs. G. w. Fanning, Mr. and Mrs. George J. Gould and Mr. and Mrs. William A. The treasury of the Lakewood Library Associa tion was substantially increased by the tea, cake and candy sale held under the auspices of the Association at the library on Friday afternoon. The committee that arranged the sale-Mrs. O. C. Hovey, Miss Hattie E. Smith and Miss Eva B. Glover-met with hearty co-operation from the cot-tagers and Lakewood residents who appreciate the library and free reading-room. Mrs. George W. Stockley and Mrs. Clarence C. Curtiss were the hostesses at the chocolate table, and Miss Elsie Davis was in charge of the tea table, Mrs. David B. Plumer and Miss Laura Kimball sold cake, and the Misses Ferris and the Misses King managed the booth for the sale of home-made candy in attractive baskets and boxes. handicap. In addition to the Kerr-Bowers tie, the first match for "The Times and Journal" Cup will be played. This contest is open to ciub members and subscribers, and is to be played for each succeding Saturday in December and January, the winner to hold it one week, and to become the property of the one winning the greater number of times. An open tournament will be played on the new links of the Country Club for a sliver cup presented by George J. Gould, on New-Year's Day.

The meet for last Saturday's run with the hounds was at James Converse's cottage, Gray Gables. The drag was laid from the Whitesville road across the White farm to Whitesville, and from there to the Holburn and Matthews farm, returning over the Holman farm for the finish, near Jackson's Mills. There was some pretty jumping, and Kensington, the blue-ribbon winner in the class for green hunters, having become accustomed to the country and the style of fence, made clean jumps and showed an altogether satisfactory performance. Stanton Elliott rode him again, Others who followed were Starr Donaldson, W. M. Healy and Richard W. Houghton.

The exterior improvements at the Laurel-in-the Plnes have made such progress as to make it certain that they will be completed before the house opens on December 16, in spite of the delay caused by the cold weather. Interior changes are being carried forward rapidly under the direction of Mr. Porter, who sent out his announcement cards this week.

THE R. A. R. RECEPTION.

It will be many a day before the echoes of the re ception given by the Sons of the American Revolu die away. Those who were present, more than one thousand in number, ladles and gentlemen, are unanimous in the statement that the affair was one of the most enthusiastic and successful ever given

Mr. Depew's impromptu oration upon Washington, whose farewell to the officers of his army was celebrated, was original in conception, and sought to depict Washington as a man, taller and grander than other men, but, like other men, with human frailties and temper, which he conquered. The speech was delivered with Mr. Depew's characteristio fire and style, and was the theme of delighted comment by the guests during the remainder of the evening. His doubt as to whether he should nounce the name of Fort Duquesne in the Presin some other way, elicited a roar of laughter in which Dr. Klittredge joined as heartily as the rest. Of the cane which was presented by Dr. tredge, made of historic woods by Tiffany & Co., Mr. Depew said yesterday: "The cane proves, on examination by daylight, to be not only historically valuable, but an artistic success."

DOUGLAS A. LEVIEN CRITICALLY ILL.

Douglas A. Levien, a well-known New-York century an editorial writer on several papers, i ical condition, suffering from congestion of the came Cowntown on Wednesday, and the exposure to the cold brought on the congestion, which, it is feared, will prove fatal. There was a slight im provement in his condition, however, yesterday. Mr. Levien has long been a successful newspaper man. When a young man Mr. Levien went to Westfield, in Chautauqua County, this State, and started a paper called "The Westfield Messenger." Ten years later he went to Buffalo and became the Editor-in-Chief of "The Courier" in that city. Editor-in-Chief of "The Courier" in that city.
From there he went to Albany, becoming Editor-in-Chief of "The Albany Statesman." He later took charge of "The Albany Statesman." He later took charge of "The Albany Atlas and Argus," which paper at that time was one of the leading Democratic organs of the State. He was also agent of the Associated Press, as he had also been when in Buffaio, and attended to all legislative matters. He was an intimate friend of Horatio Seymour when the latter was Governor, and was appointed by him military secretary. Mr. Levien eventually came to New-York and accepted the place of Political Editor of "The New-York Herald." When "The Evening Telegram" was started Mr. Levien was made its editor-in-chief, at the same time retaining his place on "The Herald." When Mr. Pulitzer assumed control of "The World" Mr. Levien was called to that paper. He has been with it ever since then.
